

5. The Facts

There is not enough housing in Scotland that is wheelchair accessible:

Around 6.4% of the Scottish population uses a wheelchair or mobility aid, and around 14% of households in Scotland include someone who uses a wheelchair or mobility aid

1 in 4 indoor wheelchair users say their home is not suitable for their needs

OVER 17,000

wheelchair users across Scotland have unmet housing needs

Only 0.7% of Scottish local authority housing, and 1.5% of housing association property, is accessible for wheelchair users

In the period 2002-2009, an average of 162 fully wheelchair user accessible new homes were provided per annum in the social rented sector; this is, on average, 3.4% of the affordable housing supply programme for social rent

The need for housing suitable for disabled people is not a minority or specialist issue:

20% of Scotland's adult population are disabled

1/3 of households contain at least one person with a long-standing illness, health problem or disability

Significant numbers of disabled people in Scotland are living in homes that do not meet their basic needs:

7% (61,000) disabled people can't get up or down the stairs inside their home

30,000 disabled people cannot use or have great difficulty using their bathroom and/or toilet

 17,000 disabled people haven't got the specially designed/adapted bathroom/shower they need

4,000 need a specially designed/adapted kitchen but don't have one

Adaptations save the health and social care system money but investment in adaptations is not always keeping track with demand:

One quarter of disabled people who could benefit from adaptations live in a home that is not suitable for them

Each adaptation to a housing association property saves the Scottish health and social care system over

£10,000

£13m was invested by the Scottish Government in grants to social housing providers for adaptations in 2015-16; this figure is the same as that spent 8 years ago, in 2007-8

Disabled people are over-represented in the Social Rented sector and face restrictions and barriers trying to buy or rent privately:

Almost half (43%) of disabled people live in social rented housing – double the proportion in the population as a whole

Only 30% of disabled people rent privately versus 40% of tenants who are not disabled

38% of disabled people own their home with a mortgage as opposed to 44% of non-disabled people
